This person may be retained or employed by a lawyer, law office, governmental agency or other entity or may be authorized by administrative, statutory or court authority to perform this work." However, it is not the intent of DAPA to exclude any member of the legal profession whose job duties fit the definition of paralegal but whose job title remains "legal assistant" or some other similar title. Additionally, the term "substantive" shall mean work requiring recognition, evaluation, organization, analysis, and communication of relevant facts and legal concepts.
